LEE M'CLUNG TO ADDRESS BANKERS

Treasurer of the United States to Speak Here at Banquet on April 7.

Lee McClung, treasurer of the United States, has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address at a banquet which will be given at the Jefferson Hotel on the evening of April 7 by Richmond Chapter, American Institute of Banking. Officers and directors of all the local banks will attend, giving Mr. McClung an audience of about 250 at the dinner. R. H. MacMichael, of Pittsburgh, president of the American Institute of Banking, has been invited, and it is probable that other distinguished people will be asked to speak.

A committee consisting of W. M. Addison, Clinton L. Williams and George H. Reese saw Mr. McClung in Washington, returning home yesterday, and he was announced that he would come here in April. The Treasurer of the United States was with the Southern for a number of years before his election as treasurer of Yale University in 1904. He was assistant to the second vice-president, and later became assistant freight traffic manager of the Southern. He left Yale in 1909 to become Uncle Sam's treasurer, yet there are probably thousands of people in this country who remember him only as the star half back on the Yale football eleven in 1891. He is a native of Knoxville, Tenn.

CASE COMPROMISED

Rate Return - $100 to Bondsmen of H. L. Martin.

A compromise was reached yesterday in the ancient suit of T. H. Martin and E. D. McCray against Morton Marrye, Auditor of Public Accounts, on payment of $100, the suit being dismissed. Martin and McCray were on the bond of R. L. Martin in the sum of $500, indicted for selling liquor illegally. They claimed to have delivered him to custody of the court on August 3, 1909, when the case was continued until August 22, 1909. In the interim the prisoner left for parts unknown. The prosecuting officials held that the bond was forfeited to the State, and the State secured a judgment by default for the full amount of the bond. The bondsmen, however, sued for return of the money on the ground that their compact had been fulfilled when they delivered the prisoner to the court, and that they had been hanging fire without trial for more than ten years.

LIABLE TO PENALTY

Many Corporations Fail to Make Report to Government.

Corporations of the Second Virginia Collection District of the United States Internal Revenue Department who do not make a report of their net and gross earnings for the year of 1910 to the office of Collector M. K. Lowry before the close of business to-morrow night will be liable to severe penalty. These reports are necessary that the government may assess the concerns under the corporation tax, which will be payable before July 1.

At the office of Collector Lowry yesterday it was said that about 60 per cent. of the corporations of this district have filed their statements.

Heavy fines, including terms of imprisonment, are provided by statute against officers of companies responsible for making known their earnings to the revenue department.

TAXICAB MAX ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF SPEEDING

MOHAWK CLAIMS SOON TO BE PAID

Distribution to Be Made to Supply Lien Creditors of Trigg Works.

Partial settlement of the long litigation growing out of the receivership of the William R. Trigg Company has been effected by a decree entered by the United States Supreme Court yesterday in compliance with the United States Supreme Court. The result will be the distribution to supply lien creditors of $281,819.47.

The claims are those of creditors who furnished material and supplies used in building the United States revenue cutter Mohawk. When the Trigg works failed the government took over the vessel as it stood, and had it completed elsewhere. Many creditors came in and filed supply liens, for which the Supreme Court has now decided the government is liable. The Chancery Court, therefore, enters a decree directing the Federal government to deposit $281,819.47 to the credit of the court in the National Bank of Virginia. Whenever the money is paid over, the court orders its distribution to fifty or more creditors with interest, being settled in full of all these claims. The decree approves claims of $3,292.59 for expenses and costs of administration; $205,876.11 for the original supply liens, and $79,943.25 for interest thereon.

There is to be a further distribution on a similar basis of $299,153.35, being the amount of supply liens with interest on the armored cruiser Galveston, which was in course of construction here when the shipbuilding firm failed. Although many claimants have come in and taken part in the costs of the suit, the papers remain in the hands of S. H. Hawes & Company, against the William R. Trigg Company. There are a number of claimants who have a larger interest than those of S. H. Hawes & Company.

RECOVERS JEWELRY

Property in Detective Office Identified as That of Miss Ann Grubbi.

Miss Lena Grubbi, of Woodstock, yesterday identified the $40 worth of jewelry and other small property found a few days ago hidden in Bennett's livery stable and taken to the office of Captain McMahon as belonging to her sister, Miss Ann Grubbi. Miss Grubbi, accompanied by her sister and a physician, was brought here, and taken to St. Luke's Hospital. It is supposed that the jewelry was extracted from her handbag in transit, as the handbag was delivered. The jewelry was soon misused, but notice that it had been found was seen in The Times-Dispatch, which led to identification and recovery.

MELTON TO TAKE MARRIOTT'S PLACE

Cashier at Post-Office Reduced to Clerkship as Result of General Shake-Up.

NEW MAN IN REDWOOD'S JOB

Ten Promotions Follow Reorganization Which Inspectors Recommended.

Ten promotions, two heads of departments reduced to clerkships and one removal is the result of a reorganization of the Richmond Post-Office force which will take effect to-morrow. Walter D. Melton, assistant superintendent of Station A, will succeed W. McKim Marriott as cashier, and under the new regime the former will have charge of the money order division. The former cashier will be retained as a clerk with a reduction in salary from $2,250 to $1,200. All finances of the local office will be under the supervision and direction of Assistant Postmaster L. W. Fuller.

W. Ross Southward, superintendent of the registry division, has been promoted to the position of superintendent of mails, city delivery and registry division, with a salary of $1,500. Under his plan, Elmo S. Redwood, superintendent of city delivery, will be reduced to a clerkship, while John G. Fitzgerald, superintendent of mails, will be removed.

These are the most important changes which will be made. Postmaster Edgar Allan, Jr., made announcement yesterday of the reorganization and it came as a great surprise to all employees of the office, although rumors of the plan have been rife for several days among the clerks.

Discussing the matter yesterday, Mr. Allan said that the reorganization of this office is simply a new plan of government which the department proposes to inaugurate in all of the post-offices of the larger cities. It is in keeping with the retrenchment policies of the administration.

Result of Inspection. "The First Assistant Postmaster-General, upon a recommendation accompanying a report of the eight inspectors who recently checked up this office, ordered me to make the changes," said Allan, "and now in view of the fact that the plan is now in vogue in Indianapolis, Washington, Baltimore and other cities."

Mr. Allan does not believe that the changes will impair the efficiency of the Richmond Post-Office.

In the past the post-office has been run by executive heads of a cashier, superintendent of supply, superintendent of city delivery, superintendent of mails, superintendent of registered mails and superintendent of carriers. The new scheme is for the purpose of bringing the various divisions in closer touch than members of one department. The cashier, superintendent of city delivery, superintendent of mails, superintendent of registered mails and superintendent of carriers are to be brought into closer touch with the heads of the departments. In order to eliminate friction, which has been caused during the past on account of congestion in one department, while the work in another was light, the new plan has been inaugurated.

One Man to Handle Funds.

The order will place the care of all funds of the post-office upon one man. In the money order division Superintendent P. W. Kunkler will become assistant superintendent under the direction of Mr. Melton as cashier. Mr. Melton will be succeeded as assistant superintendent of Station A by W. F. McLean, a clerk in the general office. Mr. McLean will be continued as superintendent of Station A. P. W. Schick, a clerk, has been named superintendent of Station B to succeed John M. Gordon, who will be retained as a clerk. Those who will have charge of the three divisions under Mr. Southward include Charles R. Robinson, registry; Charles Hartz, mailing; H. M. Lawder, city delivery. Assistant Postmaster Fuller and Mr. Melton have been in Washington for several days securing information in connection with the installation of a new system for handling the financial department. They are expected to return to Richmond to-day.

Warren P. Taylor Improving.

SKULL FRACTURED BY AUTOMOBILE

Walter Coleman, Nine Years Old, Knocked Down by Dr. W. E. Broadus.

NO HOPE FOR HIS RECOVERY

Physician Claims That Boy Dashed Suddenly in Front of Machine.

WALTER COLEMAN.

Run down by an automobile driven by Dr. W. E. Broadus, of Glen Allen, Walter Coleman, nine years old, of 813 West Broad Street, was seriously injured early last night at Monroe and Broad Streets, and his death at the Memorial Hospital, where he was taken almost immediately after the accident, is hourly expected.

The boy was unconscious when lifted from the ground by Dr. Broadus, and was still unconscious when the latest report from the hospital was received. His skull is fractured at the base.

After admission to the hospital, treatment and calling in another physician to his assistance, Dr. Broadus went to the Second Police Station in company with Policeman Porter, and there a simple "accident report" was written out against him. He was informed, however, that a charge might be preferred against him, and it is probable that a warrant will be issued against him to-day, certainly if the child should die.

Duried in Front of Car.

Dr. Broadus was driving home from his office at 221 East Broad Street, and was accompanied by P. C. Omohundro, also of Glen Allen, when the accident occurred. He was crossing Broad Street, at the intersection of Monroe, and was running, it was stated by himself and by Mr. Omohundro, at the rate of five or six miles an hour. He blew his auto horn several times for street clearance, and had reached the north side of the street when suddenly a small figure darted in front of his machine. The boy, he said, had run from the northwest corner, and before he could stop was directly in front of him.

The emergency brakes were applied, but it was a moment too late. The right fender of the machine struck the child, and hurled him out into the street. The automobile was brought to a halt almost immediately, and both Dr. Broadus and Mr. Omohundro got out of the machine to go to the aid of the child lying still in the middle of the street. They picked him up and carried him into the Saunders-Hunt Drug Company's store, on the south-west corner. The child was unconscious and breathing heavily.

Dr. Broadus called Dr. J. Fulmer Bright to his aid, and then called the city ambulance. Both responded. It was seen, however, that the boy's injuries were serious, and when the city ambulance arrived it was deemed best to have him taken to the Memorial Hospital. He was taken away at once.

Went First to Station.

Dr. Broadus went to the Second Station, whence, after the formalities had been gone through with, he departed for his home. He asked that everything possible be done for the child; that no expense be spared. The boy was placed on the operating table, and an operation was performed to relieve pressure on the brain. Practically no hope, however, was held out for his recovery.

Mrs. Jennie Coleman, the boy's grandmother, with whom he had been living for some time, was apprised of the accident, and soon arrived at the hospital. The boy's mother, Mrs. Maude Coleman, of 2108 Taylor Street, also came to the hospital. She is a widow, with two children, of whom Walter was the elder. Both mother and grandmother broke down and wept bitterly.

Qualifications in Chancery.

Zebulon W. Hooker qualified yesterday in the Chancery Court as administrator of Henry C. Hooker. The estate is valued at $500.

Johanna K. Brown qualified as administrator of William Webster Brown. The estate is valued at $5,000.

FAVORS PLAN TO SEPARATE RACES

Committee Unanimously Recommends Adoption of Vonderlehr Ordinance.

MAY OPEN A NEW SECTION

Proposed to Annex Territory Around Union University for Colored People.

After an extended hearing of both sides of the question, the Council Committee on Ordinance, Charter and Reform last night by a unanimous vote, recommended to the Council the Vonderlehr race segregation ordinance. While not restricting the ownership of property, it provides that no white person shall reside on any block the majority of the residents of which are colored, and that no colored people shall live on a block where the majority of residents are white. Servants and employees are excepted. The paper does not affect those at present occupying homes in a neighborhood of the other color.

An amendment proposed at the instance of Rev. Luther Hanningan, exempting charitable institutions and religious societies and settlement workers from the provisions of the act was rejected after it had been pointed out that it would allow colored churches on white streets, and that Hanningan was assured that such exemptions as were necessary for the continuation of all reputable missions among colored people would be granted from time to time.

Mitchell Leads Opposition. John Mitchell, Jr., president of a colored bank at Third and Clay Streets, led a large delegation of very respectable colored citizens in opposition. The affirmative side was in the main composed of property owners on Clay Street, which seems to be the bone of contention.

Mitchell and his followers pointed out very clearly that the races were already well segregated in Richmond, and that it had been best for both races that it had been so, but that the present area assigned to colored people was not large enough, being the same as in former years, despite the increase in negro population, while by annexation and in other ways the colored people were being crowded larger from time to time by improvement of residential streets.

Mitchell told of owning houses on Clay Street, rented through agents to white people, and gave figures to show the wonderful progress of his business. He said that there was no vacant property between Brook Avenue and Eighth Street north of Clay Street, that the overcrowding of the negro section was a menace to the health of the entire city, white and colored, and that the colored people were being crowded larger from time to time by improvement of residential streets.

Several property owners spoke in favor of the ordinance, telling of the steady depreciation in values in certain sections whenever it was even reported that a negro had bought property. Colonel Charles E. Wingo told of one instance on Linden Street where a number of houses had been vacated because a lot opposite was sold to a negro, and Rev. Mr. Burrell told of conditions in Fairmount where there was a condition in the deed as to making it a white settlement from the time it was laid out. However, were residents of Clay Street, on which the negroes have recently acquired a church and a bank, and which has been the scene of a number of disturbances, the better class of negroes, Leigh Street west of Third having changed from white to colored within the last few years, a colored neighborhood, thought that the city should set apart some section of the city for the growth of the negro race, and so prevent sudden changes in the neighborhood and the danger of race clashes.

The speech of Mitchell had made a most excellent impression on the committee, and an editorial had been published in a negro newspaper was of a different tone, and served to a large extent to counteract the effect of his remarks when it was read in a Clay Street citizen.

Would Open New Negro Quarter.

As soon as the vote had been taken, Mr. Noble, formerly an assistant city attorney, and who had been consulted by the City Attorney and asked him to draw the preliminary papers for the appointment of a committee to look into the advisability of annexing a section in the vicinity of the Virginia Union University, a colored institution on the North Side, to the city, which it is proposed that the city open streets and make other improvements to provide for what seems clearly needed room for growth for the overcrowded negro quarter. It was the opinion of members of the committee that under the ordinance recommended by the Council, the colored people could buy in the majority of any one block in the city, and after taking possession, vote out their colored neighbors, making a block of a majority of the residents. The patron of the ordinance thought this was not the case, that colored people might own property anywhere in the city, even on Monument Avenue, but that under the law, even if they owned the entire block, they could not move into and occupy a house in a section altogether white.

The application of the Purdy Tea Cream Company for permission to erect a stable in an alley between Main and Cary, Jefferson and Madison Streets was recommended for rejection, on protest of several Main Street citizens.

Noble Elected.

The Board of Health last night elected E. M. Noble, formerly an assistant city inspector, to the position of Food Inspector, made vacant by the death of W. T. Holdsworth. The board elected Charles J. B. Hare as Assistant Food Inspector.

RATE CASE WILL BE ARGUED TO-DAY

Washington-Southern Appeal to Be Heard—Several Cases Postponed.

In the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, which resumes its sessions this morning, the first case on the docket is that of the Washington-Southern Railway Company against the Commonwealth, on an appeal from a decision of the State Corporation Commission. This will be argued by Hill Carter for the railroad, and by Assistant Attorney-General Richard E. Davis for the Commonwealth.

The case involves the passenger rate of the road, which is part of the Richmond-Washington line, running from Quantico to the south end of Potomac Bridge. It was not a party to the proceedings whereby the other trunk lines of the State were allowed to charge 2 1/2 cents per mile, but later on it filed a petition asking for a restoration of the old 3-cent rate. Following the hearing, the Corporation Commission denied the petition, but entered an order permitting the 2 1/2-cent rate to be charged. Not satisfied with this, the Washington-Southern took an appeal.

The record was not ready at the November term, and a postponement was had at the January term. Argument will be had, however, to-day. The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, the other principal part of the Richmond-Washington system, has proceedings pending involving the same point. The real object is to secure a maintenance of the 3-cent fare on the system, though business.

A continuance will be had in the appeal of F. C. Thornton, the convicted Charlotte county banker, who was sentenced to a term in the penitentiary for the ensuing year or else will be removed to Wytheville for hearing in June.

Because of the illness of Robert E. Scott no hearing will be had at this term in the case of the Williams Printing Company, which was ordered to pay $1,600 in a slander suit against the printing house and a man named Yoder, who was publishing a pamphlet printed by the Williams Printing Company. The suit will go over to the November term.

The term will probably last until about the end of March. A big batch of decisions is expected on March 9.

BLUES' ASSOCIATION

Clarence Wyatt Re-Elected President at Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Richmond Light Infantry Blues' Association was held last night in the association rooms at the Blues' Armory. It was probably the most largely attended meeting of the organization in years, and the reports of the officers, especially that of the treasurer, which showed the financial affairs of the association to be in excellent condition, were received with marked gratification. Captain Clarence Wyatt, president of the association, presided. Election of officers for the ensuing year was the order of business, and the following officers were re-elected: Warren, vice-president; George W. Munford, Jr., secretary; F. G. Earnest, assistant secretary; Stuart Cooke, treasurer.

The president was authorized to appoint a committee of twelve, representing the various periods during the life of the organization, to start an organized campaign for membership. The association now has about 150 members on its roll, and it is hoped to increase this number through the efforts of the committee and acting as an incentive to those who are yet undecided.

After the business session refreshments were served.

AFTER NEW MEMBERS

Chamber of Commerce to Go After All Business Men in City.

With a large attendance, the Chamber of Commerce committee on membership met at the Jefferson Hotel last night. After discussing plans for a systematic canvass of the city, a list of individuals and firms was read and divided among the members, who will meet at the Jefferson on week hence.

The method will be in vogue until all business men of the city proper and the Southside have been afforded the opportunity of becoming members. Those who already have made up their minds to become members are requested to send in the chamber applications at once to the business manager, thereby facilitating the work of the committee and acting as an incentive to those who are yet undecided.

The indications are that the additional number necessary to bring the membership of the chamber to 1,000 will be obtained within the next few weeks.

BECK'S SALARY

Finance Committee to Act on Pending Increase To-Night.

The Council Committee on Finance has been called to meet to-night at 8 o'clock in the office of the Commissioner of Revenue to assess license taxes for the year. Beside the routine work the committee will take up the ordinance increasing the salary of Building Inspector H. P. Beck, and the finding of the committee will be reported to the Board of Aldermen at the special meeting to be held on Thursday night. Pending action by the Council, Mr. Beck has given no answer to the call of the Virginia Railway and Power Company.

The Committees on Streets and Markets are scheduled to meet to-night in regular session.

Judgment for Defendant.

Verdict and judgment for the defendant were entered yesterday in the City Circuit Court in the suit of James S. Sledge against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company. The action was for personal injuries, for $5,000.
